Interdisciplinary Teamwork In Hospitals A

Interventions designed to improve teamwork in hospitals include localization of physicians, daily goals of care forms and checklists, teamwork training, and interdisciplinary rounds. Though additional research is needed to evaluate the impact on patient outcomes, these interventions consistently result in improved teamwork knowledge, ratings of teamwork climate, and better understanding of patients' plans of care.

Interdisciplinary care plans:

Teamwork makes the dream work. As provider attitudes and patient expectations have shifted toward more patient-centric care models, many healthcare organizations have adopted an interdisciplinary approach to planning and assessing care. In facilities across the country, interdisciplinary care plans are created using input from multiple disciplines, including physicians, nurses, pharmacists, case managers, and others.
